Glenda Doggett serves in Honduras on the Island of Roatan as the Regional Supervisor for the English District of the East Territory of Honduras and also as the Lead Pastor of the Church of God in Bodden Bight, Roatan.

I am currently serving on the Island of Roatan, Honduras as the Regional Supervisor for the English District of the East Territory of Honduras. I also am the Lead Pastor of the Church of God in Bodden Bight, Roatan.

God began dealing with my heart about missions in 1986. I was invited on a mission trip in October of 1986 by my Pastor, Donald Denmark. While on that mission trip I was asked to come and work with longtime missionaries, Frances Arch and Betty Timmons. From those divine encounters, I came full time to the mission field in January 1993 working in the mission school as a teacher/director and as English director of a bilingual school on Roatan as well as an associate pastor.

As Regional Supervisor of the English District of the East Territory of Honduras I work with pastors and Vessels of Mercy Clinic. I also assist in the CIMS program as I continue to pastor. My heart remains with discipleship, mentoring, and reaching our youth for Christ.

Perhaps the most lasting memorable event was God putting me together with a 10-year old boy who in less than a year became my son. God transitioned him from a village in Santa Barbara, Honduras to San Pedro, Honduras under the care of Angie McInvale Altamirano and El Hogar Esperanza. From a shy, frightened, hungry little boy, he graduated from the Bible Institute in Siguatepeque and then La Cosecha University in San Pedro Sula with a degree in pastoral counseling. He is now the Campus Director for Anchor of Hope Ministries in Portrerillos aldea above San Pedro Sula.

God is changing lives one child at a time.
